SEEDS

Watermelon Seeds

Citrullus lanatus

SNACK & INDUSTRIAL GRADE

DESCRIPTION

Egyptian watermelon seed (Citrullus lanatus) from Upper Egypt is supplied whole and roasted. Watermelon seed is a well-established snack and confectionery item across the Middle East, North Africa and Asia, and it is bought principally on size grade, colour uniformity and cleanliness.

Whole raw seed is supplied where the buyer will roast, season or process the material themselves. Roasted seed is supplied where the finished product is required, with the roast profile agreed per contract since it governs both colour and eating quality.

Applications include roasted snack production, confectionery, bakery inclusion, food service, and kernel extraction for further processing. Size grade is the parameter that most affects value in the snack trade, and it should be stated as a screen specification rather than as a descriptive grade name, since trade terminology is not standardised between markets.

Upper Egypt's irrigated season and dry harvest window allow the seed to be dried quickly, and the crop passes a cleaning sequence with de-stoning, sieving, gravity separation, aspiration and magnetic separation. Each shipment carries a certificate of analysis for the lot supplied. Specifications are available upon request and can be tailored to buyer requirements, including size grade, roast profile and packing. FOB Alexandria with the complete export documentation set. Samples are available for evaluation.
